RESULTS

Vitiligo or Leucoderma

Vitiligo is a chronic skin condition characterized by the development of white patches on the skin.

- Our skin has colour forming cells called melanocytes.
- In vitiligo, our immunity starts attacking these colour forming cells.
- Loss of colour forming cells leads to loss of pigment production in skin.
- This leads to white colour in skin where colour forming cells were killed. This condition is called vitiligo or Leucoderma.

Causes

- Stress
- Poor nutrition
- Type 1 Diabetes
- Thyroid disorder
- Obesity
- Shift workers

Best Natural Ayurvedic Treatment at Kayakalp Global

1. After making a careful diagnosis, the treatment approach depends on the stability of the disease.
2. In cases where the patches are stable, Color forming herbal medicines are given for internal as well as external application.
3. If the disease is unstable or spreading, medicines will be modified to stop the spread and start color formation at the same time.
4. We will guide you to the time frame of recovery from the start of the treatment. If the disease has already appeared on the hands and feet there is a high chance of spreading to private parts and lips. Once white patches appear on lips, face and private parts, timely action is required.
5. For pediatric patients (children) we have formulated medicines in syrup form for easy consumption.
6. Herbal medicines have been tested for heavy metals and safety is well established. No side effects over the course of 20+ years
